Family & Relationship Counselling

This service supports couples, individuals and families through:

- Support and guidance to strengthen a relationship with a partner or family member
- Assistance to build strong parenting skills
- Enhancing relationships through communication skills and managing emotions
- Support through grief and loss
- Assistance to create workable goals
- Support to manage the end of a relationship
- Assistance to support and ensure wellbeing of children through separation

A fee for the service may apply to some income earners. When required a free Family Law Counselling Service is available to couples with children.

This service is provided in Southern Tasmania from our offices located in Hobart (159 Collins St), Glenorchy (436 Main Rd) and Sorell (42 Cole St).

This service is funded by the Australian Government, Department of Social Services.
