Mental health and wellbeing

We all have to face challenges in life. People who have good mental health are more likely to be able to cope with the ups and downs.

Our mental health is made up of our psychological, emotional and social wellbeing. This means it affects how we feel, think and behave each day. Our mental health also contributes to our decision-making process, how we cope with stress and how we relate to others in our lives.

The Way Back Support Service

The Way Back Support Service is a free non-clinical service that was designed by Beyond Blue to give personalised support for up to three months following a suicide attempt or suicidal crisis.

- working with you to develop a suicide safety and support plan
- connecting you with services that can help such as community groups and financial or relationship counselling

Housing

Finding the right home is a big part of life and an important decision for anyone.

At Anglicare, we understand that many Tasmanians can't afford to buy a house. There is also a big shortage of rental properties.

When searching for an affordable home, many people will live in a series of short-term, problematic housing situations, often relying on the help of family or friends to put them up temporarily. This instability can affect health and wellbeing, and make it difficult to keep children in school. It can also make employment or looking for work very difficult.

Anglicare works with people to help obtain and maintain tenancies.

We can also connect people to other services they may need during this time to improve their wellbeing and personal opportunities.

Anglicare has supported accommodation for adults who are looking for safe and affordable housing with onsite support in the Burnie area.

Young people who are looking to pursue education and employment in a supported environment in Devonport may be eligible to live at Eveline House.
